

AT A GLANCE

Texas Public School Nutrition Policy for Middle and Junior High Schools

Schools are in a powerful position to influence children's lifelong eating habits. To support this role and help combat the childhood obesity crisis, the Texas Department of Agriculture created new nutrition guidelines for public schools participating in the federally funded Child Nutrition Programs. This quick reference guide outlines the policies for Texas middle and junior high schools, effective Aug. 1, 2004. For the purpose of this policy, middle and junior high schools are defined as any campus containing a combination of grades 6, 7 and 8; 7 and 8; or 7, 8 and 9.

FOOD FROM HOME

This policy does not restrict the types of food that parents provide for their own child's consumption at school. However, schools may adopt more restrictive rules as a local policy.

FOOD AT SCHOOL

ITEM	NUTRITION POLICY
Foods of Minimal Nutritional Value* (FMNVs)	The school may not provide access to FMNVs until after the last lunch period.
Candy (including candy bars and packaged candies not included as FMNVs)	The school may not provide access to candy until after the last lunch period.
Competitive Foods (any food and beverages that are not provided by the school food service)	The school may not allow competitive foods during meal periods. (see exemptions below)
Fried Potato Products (French fries, hash browns, etc.)	Servings cannot exceed 3 oz., may only be served three times a week and may only be purchased one serving at a time.
Carbonated Beverages	The school may not provide access to carbonated beverages until after the last lunch period.

* See reverse for definitions.

 Certain exemptions are allowed for school nurses, students with special needs and up to three schoolwide events pre-approved by school officials.

EXEMPTIONS INSIDE AND OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

WHERE & WHEN	NUTRITION POLICY EXEMPTION
Classroom: TAKS Test Days	Schools and parents may provide one nutritious snack per day for students taking the TAKS tests. For healthy snack ideas, see TDA's listing of "Suggestions for Nutritious Snacks," available on request and at www.squaremeals.org .
Outside the Class: Field Trips	School-approved field trips are exempt from the nutrition policy.
Outside the Class: Athletic, UIL and Band Competitions	The nutrition policy does not apply to students who leave campus to travel to athletic, UIL, band or other competitions. The school day is considered to have ended for these students. School activities, athletic functions, etc. that occur after the normal school day are not covered by the policy.

This information was compiled in June 2004. For the most current policy updates, go to www.squaremeals.org.

Foods of Minimal Nutritional Value*

SODA WATER

Includes any carbonated beverage, including those with added nutrients such as vitamins, minerals and protein.

WATER ICES

Includes any frozen, sweetened water such as popsicles and other "...sicles" and flavored ice with the exception of products that contain fruit or fruit juice.

*Some items have received exemptions from USDA. Go to www.squaremeals.org for that list.

(Federal regulations do not allow FMNVs to be sold or given away during meal periods where reimbursable meals are served and/or consumed, including during any exempted events.)

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What exactly is a competitive food?

A competitive food is any food or beverage sold or made available to students that is not provided by the school cafeteria. This includes items sold in vending machines, in school stores or through school fundraisers conducted by parents, administrators or other groups and organizations. Outside food and beverages provided for events such as pizza parties, etc., are also considered competitive. For middle/junior high schools, competitive foods cannot be provided during school meal times.

How is a "school day" defined?

The school day is defined as beginning with the start of the first breakfast period until the end of the last instruction period of the day (last bell). School activities, athletic functions, etc. that occur after the normal school day are not covered by this policy. If a school operates the federally-funded After School Snack Program, the policy will be in effect until this concludes for the day.

Which school-level policy should K-12 schools follow?

K-12 schools may follow the policy requirements designated for middle school and junior high schools.

Does this policy prohibit school teachers from using competitive foods as an instructional tool in the classroom?

School teachers may use food for instructional purposes as long as the food items are not considered FMNVs or candy.

Do these nutrition standards apply to fundraising?

For middle and junior high school campuses, the nutrition standards will apply to food fundraising. TDA has developed a list of ideas for non-food fundraising available at www.squaremeals.org. Go to the "For Schools" link.
